BOARD OF HEALTH.

Among the elete institutions whose names still survive, to remind us of their pristine glory, the knights of Malta, Lady Godiva &c. hold a prominent rank; in this city we can also boast a venerable piece of antiquity—the Board of Health—whose intrinsic value, like the Queen Anne farthing, is nothing, but which will always be regarded as a curiosity since scarcely such another has ever been seen.

The Convivan de Hygiene, with its list of medical celebrities, makes an imposing figure in print, and favors the public, from time to time, with notices of midwifery diplomas, vaccinations &c., which leaves the idea that we are not entirely at the mercy of quacks, nor unprotected against the incursion of epidemics. Newly arrived passengers are sometimes made to feel the strictness of sanitary regulations, when there is suspicion of their smuggling cholera or fever between the folds of their outer garments.

Yet when we come to examine those points of detail in which a Board of Health must signally displays its utility, we must lamentedly admit that it is a delusion to suppose the existence of such a body. A city of 150,000 inhabitants, in which sewerage is unknown, and impure water the general beverage, is a fortunate one indeed, if the ennui of the people and the disregard of the authorities for the preservation of human life. On the face of civilized creation, we defy our philanthropic collegues and learned Doctors to cite a parallel case. This climate is naturally excellent, but the fetid vapors generated by the filth of the city are enough to bring on a plague. Our markets may provide sound meats and wholesome vegetables, but the constant use of putrid water will ultimately corrupt the blood in our veins. These matters directly call for the intervention of a Board, yet we never hear physicians complain of such want. Indeed it is probable the halt of that profession would find themselves obliged to turn sheep-farmers, if, with the good climate of B. Ayres, we possessed also the sewerage and water-supply so conducive to health and salubrity.

Not alone, however, do we lack certain requirements, we also labor under an infinity of positive evils to which we are grown so habituated that their deformity no longer shocks our nervous system. Some of our streets, in the outskirts, even surpass Constantinople in the number of dead animals fast progressing to decomposition, around which a multitude of noxious flies congregate. Again, at short intervals we meet cesspools and quagmires of stagnant water and foul vegetation which, putrefying under the action of a tropical sun, emit a malaria more deadly than that of the Pontine marshes. The immediate vicinity must be rather was an objectionable residence, but has now passed, and we hope that the new year which we are entering on, will witness new police Board, its first care should be to look after those who have not yet taken victims.

But, the dead are even more neglected, as a visit to the Recoleta will convince the most sceptical or indifferent. Public cemeteries should be the objects of peculiar attention, for two reasons—1st That the health of the living may not suffer from the vapors attending the wreck of frail mortality. 2ndly That the remains of departed friends may not be exposed to indignity, but honored with that religious reverence which becomes the Campo Santo, consecrated in the same manner as the House of God. .

Our municipal fathers are very exact in levying fines for gallo ping, and charging an exorbitant sum for street-lighting, even though they don't pay the Gas Co. We should rejoice to see them convert their body into a white-washing committee, whose duties would not only include the inspection of domestic cleanliness, but also enforce the removal of dead cats, dogs &c. and the filling up of all "pantanoso."

It is quite clear that physicians live not by health but infirmity and as so many evils threaten to on all sides, we must resolve ourselves into "Comsiones de Hygiene," for if we fall into the doctors hands we are on the high road to the Recoleta.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The opera on Friday night came off rather well. People seem to have gone determined to be well pleased, and Srec. Finni and Fiorido were greeted, cheered and encored in Hawkins-street style. Ahieri looked charming in her Indian costume; her voice was in good order, and her acting superb. We have no doubt "La Indigena" will take a run on the Victoria boards.

The Circus Company seem determined to hold out to the high prices. We cannot coincide with the manager in this step, as we consider that, even though the expenses are high, the company is adopting a bad plan to meet them. Seats should be reduced to a pitaceon each. We are confident if the company do this, they will have a crowded house every night during their stay.

Our friend the Chief of Police seems to be getting into hot water with some of his old friends. The Tribuna, for once, is right when it asserts the inviolability of man's house. But we cannot condemn the measure altogether, for it is a well-known fact, that the city and camp is infested with runaway soldiers—fellows who will not stop at anything.

The laws in England is, whenever there is probable cause of belief, the magistrate grants a search-warrant, but if people can be taken prisoners, and marched off to the Police, without only executed warrant, why should not a house be searched also, without such a document? A man's house is his castle, no doubt; but his personal liberty, is it less valuable? If a man is caught in flagranti delicto, a policeman has the power and ought to arrest him, but not otherwise.

However, a man when arrested has a right to know by what authority, and for what offence a copy of the warrant should be given him, so that, if arrested illegally, he knows against whom his actions lies.

This right, however, in this city is altogether unknown. We therefore consider that the chief is perfectly right in breaking into every man's house in town, to look for those who have committed some crime as long as the law is in the state it is.

But we have said before, and now repeat it, that the jurisdiction of the Chief, and the procedure in his office, as police court, demands reformation.

So long as this times were turbulent, and conspiracies, &c, frequent, the summary and absolute jurisdiction of the Chief of Police

LOUISVILLE, SEPT. 29.—Brigadier General Jeff. C. Davis killed Major-General Nelson, at the Galt-house, this morning. An altercation took place, when Nelson slapped Davis in the face. Davis then drew a pistol and fired, killing Nelson instantly. Intense excitement prevails at the Galthouse. The Journal details the incident in explanation of the statement that General Davis had been relieved of his command. It says:—"General Davis reported to General Nelson that he had the brigade assigned to his command, the citizens of Louisville, ready for service, and desired to know if he could get arms for them. 'How many men have you?' asked General Nelson. 'About 2,500.' 'About 2,500. About 2,500.' You a regular officer, and report About the number of men in your command. Don't you know, sir, you should give the exact number? 'But, General,' replied Davis, 'I didn't expect to get the guns now; I only wanted to learn if I could get them, and where, and, having learned that, I could ascertain the exact number needed and draw them.' 'About 2,500,' persisted Nelson. 'I suspend you from your command, and order you to report to General Wright and Prepared mind to send you out of the city with a Provost-guard'. General Nelson, as we learn from Cincinnati, went immediately to that city, to report to General Wright.

The homicide must have been committed almost immediately after his return to that city. The deceased was a brave man and a good subordinate general, but he failed to pay any respect to those courtesies, not to say decencies, of life without which ability and bravery are useless in a military leader. He was blasphemous, indecent, and abusive beyond all precedent in misconversation and deportment toward his equals and inferiors in rank. If one-half that is reported of him is true, he is marvel he was not shot months since. The trains on the Louisville and Frankfort Railroad have ceased running for the present. The Confederates have cut wired the telegraph instruments at La Grange and Oldhannon. A gentleman from Frankfort says on Friday there were 100 rebel troops there. They expected Humphrey Marshall to take charge of the post. General Buell's force is fully organized and fully adequate to meet all the force of the rebels in Kentucky. A large portion of our forces there are veterans.

Dispatches from Colonel Sibley at St. Paul, Minnesota state that a sharp engagement has taken place with the Sioux, near Yellow Medicine; about thirty Indians killed and the yoke wounded. The Indians fell back toward Leen-parle Sibley following.

TWELVE AMERICAN SHIPS BURNT.

THE STEAMER "290."

By the arrival at this port, yesterday, of the American ship Emily Farnham, Captain Sumes we are placed in still later intelligence on the depredations of this famous cruiser. Captain Sumes reports that at noon, on the 3rd inst., wind light, lions in longitude 52 W (or the mid of the banks), he was overhauled by a screw steamer flying the St. George's pendant, which was soon placed by the Confederate flag, and the Emily Farnham demanded a prize to the Confederate war steamer Alabama, (or 290, Captain Semmes. The captain of the Emily Farnham submitted his papers for inspection, when it was found that some 400 barrels of lard were on that property, so that the prize was she was a neutra ship, and could not be destroyed. Captain Semmes very reluctantly endorsed her [Emily Farnham's] register, allowing her to proceed, but not before he had transferred from the Sumter the crews of the ship Brilliant, from New York Sept 9th, for London, and the whaling barques Virginia and Enoch Barnard—in all 82 souls. The captains mates and stewards were transferred to an Argo boat ship, bound to New York, so that the Emily Farnham only landed at this port 72 seamen. Captain Semmes made particular inquiry after the American ship Dreadnought, Capt. Samuels, which vessels, he said, had arms on board for the Federal Government. [The Dreadnought left this port on the 1st. inst.] At 5 p. m., having got all the information he wanted [or could get] from Captain Simes, he allowed him to proceed on his voyage. At 6 p. m. they saw them setting the sails Brilliant on fire, which continued burning all night. Captain Hagar, of the Brilliant, imported her 21 days out from New York, with 30,000 bushels of wheat, and many quantities of butter, lard, &c. The Alabama is becoming as famed as her predecessor the Sumter in he cruising line, and has evidently given the Tuscarora and st. Louis the slip as they are cruising on the look-out for her in the Mediterranean while she is committing such depredat ons as the above in the Atlantic.

The steamer Alabama reports having also discharged eleven whalers, besides the Brilliant—in all, twelve Federal ships; and her commander was most anxious to meet with the Dec. 7th, in order to complete the destruction of what he termed a "load of prize

LOCAL EVENTS.

Banda Oriental.—While the Uruguayans at Montevideo is putting every native under arms, to resist an imaginary invasion of General Flores, his officers is working quietly in estancia, one hundred leagues South of this city.

While Don Luis Magarinos is in prison for coming to Buenos Aires on a revolutionary mission, the Editor of the "Nacion Argentina" declare that he came on business connected with their printing establishment and was going to Europe by the Paraná per mail.

We suppose it is the good season for all the princes will end in smoke, but at the same time we still have doubts even of the probability to that country.

Rural Cult.—The "Nacion Argentina" suggests the appointment of Dr. Eduard Olivera to take a part with Dr. Al ma in that work.

St. Oliveria is well known as one of the most intelligent camp men and most active and enterprising, his appointment would redeem your great satisfaction to be public.

La Patria.—The paper has been suspended on Monday's decree on account of prosecution by the government, and the Editors lying in prison.

El Porvenir Mercantil.—Late proceedings of the University has been appointed by the national government. Engineer of public roads and bridges.

The Union.—Several persons only subscribed have subscribed a sum for the survey of the range of hills which are supposed to contain valuable mineral treasures.

They are about one hundred leagues south of Buenos Aires and after several remarkable peculiarities, amongst which an immense lubricating stone and a kind of stone very soft in the ground and easily cut with the knife, which after a couple of hours exposure to the air becomes exceedingly hard. Several samples of it may be seen at the public museum.

French Buffes.—The Monte Video papers announce the arrival at Janeiro and ultimately coming to this city of a new Co. of French Buffes.

English Breed Horses.

Belgrano's easy victory on the 19th November, beating General Mitre, Paris (the latest and best native horse in South America), proves the superiority of these cattle. They have only to be brought to the post, and they will do the themselves.

The attention of parties interested in the turf and the breeding of horses is called to the three first mares colts, and fillies, at Mr LATHAM'S Chacra, Casa Teja road, whose Boulogne, rymmetry and power have no equal. The above high prestige and performances are to be well known in the "Racing Calendar" to need recommendation; and for fertility of no horse, ever imported, surpasses him. Inspection is desired. For particulars apply in Buenos Ayres at 204 Calle Victoria, or to the owner, at his chacra N.B.—Elcho's progeny are all winning horses.
